Ensim Unify Distribution Group Manager for Active Directory & Exchange automates and streamlines the provisioning and maintenance of distribution groups. Under strict IT policy guidelines enforced in the software, end-users are allowed to create and maintain their own distribution groups, while ensuring that users are accurately, consistently, and automatically provisioned and de-provisioned. This method ensures the enforcement of security and compliance requirements in an organization while dramatically reducing maintenance costs associated with distribution group management.

Distribution Group Manager Benefits & Features Include:

- Manage regular and dynamic distribution groups
- Create, edit, delete, and clone distribution groups
- Manage Members, Email Aliases, and Delivery Restrictions
- Multiple Owner Support for a single distribution group
- Information or ethical walling capability
- Ability to set an automatic prefix for distribution group names
- Bulk import and export of distribution group members
- Full support for nested groups
- Full featured self-service functionality

IT departments are being challenged to ensure compliance with regulatory and internal security policies. IT administrators are pressured to make certain that the organization's critical intellectual property is properly managed and updated. Ensim Unify lowers costs and overhead, automates policy and streamlines maintenance.

- Installs in under 2 hours
- Minimizes help desk calls
- Role-based delegation
- Policy based self-service

ENSIM UNIFY ENTERPRISE DISTRIBUTION GROUP MANAGER

Lower Costs and Overhead:

The total cost of group maintenance can be greatly reduced when you delegate maintenance responsibilities to owners and designated managers of those groups. Administrators & help desk staff eliminate time-consuming manual tasks from their workload and can focus on IT initiatives that require specialized expertise. Group owners and designated managers are empowered to make changes as needed to improve the flow of critical business information.

Automate Policy and Streamline Maintenance:

The Ensim Distribution Group Manager allows employees to be responsible for specified groups. They perform safety management functions that would otherwise overwhelm IT administrators and help desk staff. Once the policies are in place, a secure, easy-to-use, web-based interface makes it simple for designated users to control how groups are used; created, updated, and deleted. The reporting capability makes it simple to review groups for compliance with corporate policies.

Security & Regulatory Compliance:

In regulated industries, certain groups of employees may not be allowed to communicate with other employees due to legal requirements designed to prevent "conflicts of interest." Ensim Unify Distribution Group Manager offers an automated control system that can be deployed to prevent communication between parties with a conflict of interest as defined by the organization. This "information or ethical walling" is a flexible, custom component that can be included within the Ensim Unify Distribution Group Manager.

Ensim Unify Distribution Group Manager provides an easy to use standard interface that enables DG management by end-users. The Self-Service web interface offers DG creation, deletion, and modification, as well as the management of members based on IT policy. All without a call to the help desk – any time of the day or night.
